AUGUST COURT NEXT WEEK

THE CRIMINAL CALENDAR CONTAINS AT PRESENT 55 CASES

Many Cases Disposed of, and Those Awaiting Trial Will not Likely take More than Two Days of Court.

August court next week which is devoted entirely to the trial of criminal cases will see a big list of cases, sixteen old cases and thirty-nine new ones, but by reason of continuances already arranged or made necessary for a variety of reasons, and by reason of a large number of defendants pleading guilty to the charges, and a goodly number of the cases involving minor charges which have been settled, there will be a few cases for trial and if the August court lasts beyond Tuesday afternoon session it will be a surprise.

Of the sixteen old cases, one against W. M. Robbins charging false pretenses on information of John H. Raymond, will be concluded by a plea of guilty by defendant.

The five cases against Joseph Gorder, charging assault and battery, carrying concealed weapon, and disturbing religious meeting on information of Geo. H. Wonder, and assault with intent to kill, and breaking jail on information of C. H. Wilson, will be continued. This is one of the defendants who assaulted Sheriff Fissel and escaped from jail.

The six cases against W. C. Riffert and E. E. Heindel, on information made by Noah W. Sell, J. H. Dutera, W. R. Snyder, Lewis Wolf and Allen J. March, charging false pretense in selling worthless bonds will be continued. The defendant, E. E. Heindel has not yet been apprehended.

The case against Thomas Royston, charging assault and battery on information of Howard V. Gerber, will be continued.

The case against Chas. Moore on information of James E. Weikert, charging larceny as bailee will be continued. But two old cases remain undisposed of. Case against Ernest Hoffman, charging fornication and bastardy on information of Elsie Fissel, and case against Herbert Lawson charging larceny as bailee on information of S. L. Johns, Agt.

Of the thirty-nine new cases arising since the April court and returned to the office of the Clerk of the Courts by various justices of the peace, six have already been ended by a settlement as follows:

Three cases against Mary Yindline will be continued. The charge surety of the peace by Jennie Hunter, Clara Tate and Mary Pittenbure, in two cases it is alleged threatening to cut up and wipe up lawn with and in third case with general threats. The cases were returned by Justice J. L. Hill.

With six of the new cases settled, two nol prossed, seven to be pleaded guilty to and eight to be continued, a total of twenty-three of the thirty-nine new cases already disposed of, there remains undisposed of two old cases and sixteen new ones, latter being the following:

Com. vs. Leo Marshal, charged with malicious mischief, breaking a window on information of Theresa Rang, returned by Justice V. H. Lilly.

Com. vs. Lewis Culp, charged with maintaining a public nuisance on information of John L. Dougherty. It is alleged cuspidors were emptied in gutter, and beer and bar room waste was allowed to run into gutter. Case was returned by Justice V. H. Lilly.

Com. vs. Chas. Noel, Sr., two cases, charging surety of peace, threatening to kill, and assault and battery, both on information, both returned by Justice V. H. Lilly.

If the entire eighteen cases undisposed of would result in over three or four trials, it would be surprising, and all of the trials are likely to be brief.

Beauty of Federal Building.

The work at the Federal Building is so far advanced that the beauty of the lines of the finished building are beginning to show. On the sides the walls are completed to the top of the capitals on the pilasters, the top of the windows on the second floor. On the rear the cornice, stone over the second story windows are in place. A number of courses of the marble remain to be put in place, perhaps about the uppermost fifteen feet of the building.

The work has been retarded during the past two weeks by delay in delivery of the marble by the Pennsylvania Granite and Marble Company. This company was to deliver marble enough to keep four gangs of stone men busy, but at no time has the contractor been able to do this, and though promises were made several weeks ago that sufficient marble would be delivered to fulfill their end of the contract, yet both last week and the week before there was not enough marble on hand to keep a half force going. If the marble had been received according to the contract the building would have been under roof in September but that condition can not be foretold until the marble is on the ground.

The stone men have been working on the granite steps on Baltimore and High streets. Two car loads of New Hampshire granite were received last week but this work can not be pushed ahead because of the absence of necessary stones called for in the construction of the steps.

The great quantity of steel that has been on the ground since last fall has been entirely used up, much of it in the building and some of it raised to second floor and made ready to hoist on the roof when walls have advanced far enough. The work of raising the steel is in progress.

An immense pile of cinders is being screened the fine portion to be used in the making of the concrete floors on the first and second floors.

A number of the courses of marble to go in upper part of building will be carved but the stones will come in the rough and be put in place and the contract for the decorating work will be let by as the contract is a separate part of the work.

DR. E. D. HUDSON.

Dr. Hudson is the descendant of two generations of veterinarians. Dr. Hudson was born near Baltimore

City, Maryland, in 1865, but he has lived in Pennsylvania for over 30 years. Nearly all of this time in this county, at McSherrystown, Round Top, Fairfield and Gettysburg. After an education received in the common schools of Baltimore City, he went to Europe and took a junior course at the Berlin University Veterinary Department where his grandfather was instructor in anatomy. After taking this course, and not liking the old country any too well, he came back to America and finished a four-year course under the preceptorship of his father, who was at that time one of the leading veterinarians of the State of Maryland. Dr. Hudson has practiced his profession in the State of Pennsylvania for over thirty years, and has battled successfully with every disease to which the animal is subject. But few men in this county will be found with a natural love for the animal such as he has, and with an acute instinct in recognizing their wants and changes of condition.

Dr. Hudson has been able from boyhood to treat them in sickness with rare ability, his experience has afforded every opportunity as a veterinarian. The Pennsylvania State Board of Veterinary Medical Examiners has registered and licensed Dr. Hudson as a qualified veterinarian.

WILSON COMES TO PENN'A.

His First Speech Outside New Jersey at William's Grove Next Week.

The first state outside of New Jersey to be visited by Woodrow Wilson in his campaign for the Presidency is the great Keystone State and he will come to a point near the people of Adams County.

He has accepted an invitation to speak at the Grangers picnic at Williams Grove on Thursday of next week, Aug. 29. The best political forecasters of the day declare without hesitation that Pennsylvania will give Wilson 500,000 votes and that he will have a plurality, for it is said that Roosevelt will not be able to muster over 450,000 and Taft will receive 350,000. In speaking to a delegation of Pennsylvanians last week Gov. Woodrow Wilson said:

"Certain things happened in the convention at Baltimore which made me have a very affectionate feeling toward the State of Pennsylvania, because no man ever had stancher friends than showed themselves in the Pennsylvania delegation at Baltimore."

"And yet those are things which I, for my part am now willing in one sense to forget, because there is no longer a division of opinion among Democrats or a division of feeling, and I am beginning to hope that there is no longer a division of feeling among Americans, whether they be Democrats or Republicans, as to what they want. They want the State. I mean by that not only the individual State, but the great state that comprehends the whole Union to lead itself to the services of humanity. In one sense the function of politics is the same function that you represent in your own association. It is the function of doing whatever legislation you can do to see that justice and right business prevail on the earth."

Biglerville Postmaster Resigns.

Charles P. K. Walter resigned last week as postmaster at Biglerville. He had served in this position for the past twelve years and his resignation came as a surprise to his many friends. Mr. Walter is a veteran and has reached the advanced age of 70 years and believed he was entitled to a rest.

The Biglerville postoffice comes under the civil service laws and a civil service examination has been ordered to take place on Saturday, September 14th of all applicants for the position.

City, Maryland, in 1865, but he has lived in Pennsylvania for over 30 years. Nearly all of this time in this county, at McSherrystown, Round Top, Fairfield and Gettysburg. After an education received in the common schools of Baltimore City, he went to Europe and took a junior course at the Berlin University Veterinary Department where his grandfather was instructor in anatomy. The age of cement is becoming more and more manifest each week in this town. The Seminary is busy at the present time making a variety of uses with a carload of cement. Several apartments in cellar of the new refectory are being concreted, making the entire cellar uniform. The cellar in the new recitation hall will be concreted throughout. Concrete walks from the main building to the residence on extreme north side occupied by Rev. H. C. Alleman will be built, also at the residence occupied by Rev. M. Coover and at other needed places. It is expected to have the work done before Seminary opens.

Dr. J. A. Singmaster is always thorough in all undertakings and repairs, and that the grounds will present a better and more up-to-date appearance when the work is finished is a foregone conclusion. Chas. Lady is doing the concrete work.

A number of pavements have been recently put down. Last week Mike Tate laid a concrete pavement for Dr. H. L. Diehl in front of his residence and the Huber Drug Store property. The pavement on entire east side of the first square of Baltimore street, with a single exception is now of concrete and on the west side of the street there are two exceptions. It is to be hoped that the building of concrete pavements will continue until it is too cold to build them.

If there is one place more than another where such pavements are needed it would be on the south side of York street, and this assertion it is believed will be agreed to by many of our people for the following reason. St. James Lutheran congregation has spent about $50,000 on a new church and a parsonage and it is an ornament to the town. The extensive concrete pavement around the church property and into the yard of the church and parsonage has been completed. To make this church as accessible to its congregation as it can be made it would seem the right thing if concrete pavements would be built on York street. It would be a fitting response and recognition to the enterprise of the congregation that has scattered so many thousands in the town upon the work the new building involved.

The Evergreen Cemetery Association started the good work of concrete in the south end of the town last week. The entire pavement in front of the cemetery and the walk at side of the keeper's residence, in front of it and in the rear have been made in concrete form. The pavement in rear surrounds the old pump making it more convenient to those interested in the cemetery.

A concrete pavement in front of the Wizard Theatre and the Hardware Store of J. G. Sionaker, has not been previously noted.

A point for our school directors to keep in mind is that the United States will build a concrete pavement in front of their property on corner of Baltimore and High street and a concrete pavement in front of the school property on High street should be one of their first concerns when there is available funds for pavements. The way of the very small children should be the first to be made smooth.

Here is a thought for our people to nurse, help along the age of concrete. John N. Weaver is having a concrete pavement put down in front of his property on Carlisle street, in which Shultz restaurant is located, well known at one time as McConaughy's Hall. Mike Tate is doing the work.

Max Davis will place a concrete pavement in front of the Diller property recently bought by him. This property is being remodeled so as to give a store room with large plate glass display window.

The borough started on Monday morning on the new concrete bridge over the Tiber on North Washington street. The new structure will be wider. The pavement on west side will be raised several inches. The course of the Tiber will be changed in the college meadow and the improvement will add greatly to the looks of things in that portion of the town.

—Mrs. Reuben Fissel has gone to Atlantic City for ten days.

Bogus Check Man Arrested.

County Detective Chas. H. Wilson arrested in T. Canton, N. J. W. M. Robbins and brought him to Gettysburg on Tuesday evening of last week to answer the charge of having passed bogus checks on John Raymond and John H. Fagan.

Robbins had known Mr. Raymond in York before the latter went to Gettysburg and made use of his acquaintance at that time to secure $10 on a check for $2250, asking Mr. Raymond to hold the balance until it would be called for. The check was signed by one Taylor, and was on a Hagerstown bank. Another check signed by one Fox, also on a Hagerstown bank, was cashed by John H. Fagan, who gave $9 to the man, who immediately disappeared. Both checks were found to be worthless.

THE SECRET OF LONG LIFE.

Do not sap the springs of life by neglect of the human mechanism, by allowing the accumulation of poisons in the system. An imitation of Nature's method of restoring waste of tissue and impoverishment of the blood and nervous strength is to take an alternative glyceric extract (without alcohol) of Golden Seal and Oregon grape root, Bloodroot, Stone and Mandrake root with Cherrybark. Over 40 years ago Dr. Pierce gave to the public this remedy, which he called Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. He found it would help the blood in taking up the proper elements from food, help the liver into activity, thereby throwing out the poisons from the blood and vitalizing the whole system as well as allaying and soothing a cough.

No one ever takes cold unless constipated, or exhausted, and having what we call mal-nutrition, which is attended with impoverished blood and exhaustion of nerve force. The "Discovery" is an all-round tonic which restores tone to the blood, nerves and heart by imitating Nature's methods of restoring waste of tissue, and feeding the nerves, heart and lungs on rich red blood.

"I suffered from pain under my right shoulder blade also a very severe cough," writes Mrs. W. Dorn, of New Brookland, S. C., to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. "Had four different doctors and none did me any good. Some said I had consumption, others said I would have to have an operation. I was bedridden, unable to sit up for six months—and was nothing but a live skeleton. You advised me to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. When I had taken one bottle of the 'Discovery' I could sit up for an hour at a time, and when I had taken three bottles I could do my cooking and tend to the children. I took fourteen bottles in all and was then in good health. My weight is now 167 pounds."

State Educational Asso. Program.

The Sixty-third Annual Session of the Pennsylvania State Educational Association will be held in Harrisburg, December 26, 27 and 28. The outline of the preliminary program has been sent out by the President, J. George Becht, to heads of Departments, for suggestion and revision. A new departure will be made in the program arrangement for this year. Each of the Departments will be in charge of one of the General Sessions of the Association. This will insure a larger measure of interest in the Department work.

Among the topics to receive special consideration are, first, The Rural School and Country Life Problem. Second, The Course of Study and its Adjustments. Third, Physical and Vocational Education and their Relation to Modern Life. In addition to these general lines along which the program will be arranged, and in which the child is the central theme, there will be discussions on teachers' qualifications and remunerations, including the subject of pensions and retirement funds.

Among those who have already consented to take part in the meeting are Mr. Edward Howard Griggs, author and lecturer, of New York City; Dr. Reuben Post Halleck, a prominent high school man of Louisville, Ky.; President Anna J. McKeag, of Wilson College; Mr. Wm. A. McKeever, author of "Farm Boys and Girls", of Kansas; Mrs. Frank DeGarmo, of Missouri, head of the school and country life movement in connection with the National Congress of Mothers; Supt. S. L. Heeter, of Pittsburgh; Dr. J. B. Richey, of McKeesport; Supt. J. H. Van Sickle, of Springfield, Mass. Other prominent speakers will appear on the program.

Hon. Henry Houck, Secretary of Internal Affairs, and for forty years Deputy State Superintendent of Public Instruction, will welcome the teachers on this occasion.

DAYS OF DIZZINESS

Come to Hundreds of Gettysburg People.

There are days of dizziness: Spells of headache, languor, back-ache: Sometimes rheumatic pains: Often urinary disorders. Doan's Kidney Pills are especially for kidney ills.

Endorsed in Gettysburg by grateful friends and neighbors. Mrs. J. Menchey, 46 Breckenridge St., Gettysburg, Pa., says: "Since I used and publicly endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills some years ago I have had no further need of a kidney medicine. I never enjoyed very good health and when kidney complaint came on it caused me much distress. I had pains in my back and frequently had dizzy spells and chills. When a friend told me to try Doan's Kidney Pills, I got a box at the People's Drug Store. This remedy acted promptly and before long I was in good health."

More About Water Breaks on Roads.

Every township in Pennsylvania that continues to afflict the traveling public with that relic of less enlightened days known as the water break or "thank-ye-ma'm" is laying itself open to the payment of heavy damages.

Competent authorities in road building have long since decided that water breaks are absolutely unnecessary on a properly constructed road, and now the Superior Court of Pennsylvania has ruled that townships are liable not only for the damage but for the inconvenience caused by these useless things.

Everywhere throughout the State attention of supervisors and other township officials is being directed to this decision of the Superior Court. It was rendered in the case of Lesher versus Lemon township, Wyoming county. The plaintiff was thrown from his vehicle by reason of the excessive height of a water break, and the imposition of a substantial bill of damages on the taxpayers of the township was sustained by the higher tribunal.

Not only that, but the Superior Court goes even farther than the county court, saying:

"The trial judge did not go even as far as the act of Assembly would have authorized him to go in ruling on the points to the answers to which exception was taken, having confined the attention of the jury to the dangerous condition of the road, as occasioned by the obstruction placed therein by direction of the supervisors, and leaving out of view entirely its convenience. In the construction and repair of public roads, particularly in view of the increased rapidity of travel upon them, it is important for the supervisors to keep in mind convenience as well as safety in the construction and repair of these avenues of public travel."

As the cost of failure to comply with the law in respect to safe and convenient highways must fall eventually on the farmers and other taxpayers of the townships, it is expected that a few more damage awards in accordance with this latest interpretation of the law by the Superior Court will tend to bring the "thank-ye-ma'm" into general disuse as a substitute for a properly graded roadway, which is the cheapest and best in the long run.

Cross-State Auto Line.

The completion of the state road between Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, which passes through Gettysburg, it is said will be quickly followed by the establishment of a line of automobiles that will carry passengers in summer over the route between the two cities in about the same time and with much more comfort than they can travel by train. It is said that the old "shot factory" property near Bedford has been purchased and is to form the site of a fine summer hotel, which will be used largely as a road house, and many similar places are being planned between Philadelphia and Pittsburgh. It is believed that within two years the entire road will be completed and that then those who prefer automobilizing can make the trip between the two big cities with little more expense and much more enjoyment than by rail.

Practical Education.

Few people who have not visited a modern agricultural college realize how much equipment is required to give practical education; to provide actual, daily practice in the art of Butter making, Cheese making, Ice Cream making, Milk Testing, Preparation of Starters and the more scientific work of Testing, which the modern creameryman must do. The Dairy Husbandry Department of the Pennsylvania State College is buying the milk and cream from 225 farms, within hauling distance of the College. This material sold, in the various dairy products, for $70,000 this year, which was paid to the farmers after deducting the necessary expense of manufacture. This large amount of milk and cream makes it possible at any time of the year to furnish material for class work, cream for practice with factory size churns; milk for separation with hand or factory size separators; cream for ice cream making, eight or ten ice cream freezers going at a time; milk for cheese making while the milk from a grade Guernsey herd owned by the College is bottled and retailed in the town.

Not only is there an adequate supply of material but the College laboratories contain all the latest machinery with which to practice and the instructors are men who, when the students are not in the laboratory, can take right hold and turn out a thousand pound churning of butter, a batch of ice cream or a vat of cheese.

Young men who are now earning a laborer's income with their hands and want to increase their earning power by training their heads to direct their hands in more skilled work may find a Winter Course at The Pennsylvania State College Dairy School, which opens December 4 and closes February 28, an easy way to add from five to ten dollars a month to their income the first year, and it may be the stepping stone to a position that would pay from $900 to $1500 a year, as he acquires experience and skill in his chosen work.

Any of our readers may secure complete information relative to this or the Farm Dairy Course, to be given at the same time, from Professor H. E. Van Norman, State College, Pa.

BOY THROWN FROM BICYCLE

AND RECEIVES INJURIES FROM WHICH DEATH RESULTS

A McSherrystown Veteran, the first of Six Messmates Answered last Roll Call.

MORRIS MOUL aged 17 years, 1 month and 19 days, a son of Arabella Stambaugh of Abbottstown, was fatally injured in a collision with a team on the Berlin and Hanover pike on Monday evening of last week and died a few minutes later in the office of Dr. T. C. Miller. The dead lad and a companion, Lloyd Mummert, rode from Abbottstown to Hanover during the early evening, returning home after dark. Neither of the boys had lights on their wheels and when near the bridge over Beaver Creek, at the old "tan yard," at the edge of Abbottstown, a dark and lonely spot, owing to several large willow trees overhanging the stream and roadway, a runabout in which were seated a man and woman, approached rapidly. Before Moul could get out of the way, he was struck by the vehicle and hurled with violence from his wheel, and was unconscious when picked up. His companion ran for assistance and the injured lad was carried to the office of Dr. T. C. Miller. He was restored to consciousness by the doctor and after calling for a glass of water fell back dead. The fatal accident occurred about 9.30 o'clock. George Laughman, living in the Pigeon Hills, who was in the vehicle which collided with the bicycle of young Moul, says he knew nothing of the accident until Tuesday morning when he heard a rumor of it and drove to Abbottstown to learn the particulars. The place on the road was so dark and the impact so slight that he did not even know he had struck the unfortunate lad's wheel, but an inspection of Mr. Laughman's runabout showed that the spokes of the bicycle had scratched his wagon. A large hole in the side of the abdomen of the young man is thought to have been caused by the handle bar penetrating that portion of his body and an internal hemorrhage is thought to have caused the boy's death. The funeral was held last Thursday morning, services by Rev. F. C. Steinat, interment in the Lutheran cemetery, Abbottstown.

PRES. I. NIDDERER died at his home in McSherrystown, Wednesday, Aug. 14, after an illness of over a year, aged 70 years and 12 days. He was a son of the late Peter and Maria Niederer of Conowago township. His early life was spent as a storekeeper, and later he turned to farming then to carpentering. The family moved to McSherrystown about 11 years ago, after the death of his first wife, and he has been living retired since that time. Mr. Niederer was married twice, his first wife being Miss Rebecca Klunk, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Klunk of near Hanover, to whom he was married Nov. 6, 1867. His second wife, who survives, was a widow, Mrs. Julia A. Gallagher, of McSherrystown, whom he married May 6, 1906. He is survived by one brother, Jacob D. Niederer, of McSherrystown, and two half-brothers, John Neiderer of Mt. Pleasant, and three half-sisters, Mrs. Gregory Lawrence, Bushtown, Mrs. G. F. M. Smith, Philadelphia, and Mrs. Eugene Lawrence of Irishtown; also six children as follows: Mrs. Joseph Hemler, Mrs. F. V. Topper, and Mrs. Weldon Hemler of McSherrystown, Joseph Neiderer of Mt. Pleasant township, William L. Neiderer of Mt. Rock, and Augustus Neiderer of Tidoute, Warren county, Pa. There are 15 grandchildren. He was a veteran of the Civil War, having been drafted in Co. H, 145th Regt., Pa. Militia, which was mustered into service at Gettysburg Oct. 16, 1862. He was honorably discharged July 29, 1863, and served a second enlistment. He is the first of six messmates to answer the last roll call—Wm. H. Overbaugh, Charles Shilline, James Lawrence, Henry Lawrence, and Robert Groft. Funeral was on Saturday, August 17, high mass of requiem in St. Mary's church, by Rev. W. Scanlon, interment in the Conowago Chapel cemetery.

GEORGE KIMMEL, a veteran of the Civil War, died at his home in Reading township, near Bernaduan, Monday, Aug. 12, from the effects of paralysis by which he was seized a few weeks ago. He was a potter by trade and was aged 72 years. The deceased was a highly respected citizen and is survived by his wife, nee Sarah Dittenhafer, and one son Harrison, of Reading township. The funeral took place last Thursday with services and interment at the Bernaduan Reformed church. His pastor, Rev. W. H. Miller officiated.

HARRY F. FRICKINGER died at his home in Littlestown, Aug. 15, after an illness of seven weeks caused by tuberculosis of the liver. He was born in Carroll county, Md., and at the time of his death was aged 52 years, 5 months and 7 days. About eight years ago he moved with his family to Littlestown from near Fleebush. He is survived by his wife, who was formerly Miss Rebecca Unger, and the following children: Mrs. Ashmer Owens Arthur and Mahlon Flickinger of York, and Stuart Flickinger at home. The following brothers also survive: Theodore Flickinger, Frizellburg, Md., and Milton, John and Jonas Flickinger of near Silver Run. Funeral last Saturday, services and interment at Christ Church, Rev. F. S. Lindeman officiating.

MISS GOLDIE LUELLA MUMMERT, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Mummert, died at her home at Grabbill Station, Saturday, Aug. 10, aged 19 years and 14 days. She is survived by her parents, two sisters, Mrs. Cora E. Zepp of Littlestown, and Miss Bessie Mummert, and a brother, Sterling Mummert, at home. Funeral on Wednesday, Aug. 14, services and interment at Littlestown, Rev. Dr. D. B. Lau officiating.

SAMUEL NEARY, keeper of the toll-gate on the Carlisle pike, near Littlestown, aged 55 years, father of Mrs. Elmer Myers of York, formerly of East Berlin, was buried from his late residence last week. His death was due to a prolonged illness of kidney trouble.

JOHN L. CRIST, formerly of Arendtsville, but for the past 37 years residing in California, died at his home in Oakland, California, Aug. 6th. He was born September 7, 1830. In 1852 he married Sarah L. Krautes, who survives him with three daughters and three sons.

MRS. MARGARET M. BRINKERHOFF died on Sunday morning at her home in Upper Sandusky, O. Her maiden name was Miss Margaret M. Lott and she was born in Adams county and was 83 years old last December. She married A. W. Brinkerhoff of this county and he died more than ten years ago. They have lived in Upper Sandusky since their marriage shortly after the Civil War. They have no children. She was one of ten children and but one survives, Wm. H. Lott of Stevens street this place.

SAMUEL ORNER died at his home at Warriors' Mark, Huntingdon county, Pa., on last Wednesday, Aug. 14. He was a native of Adams county, living many years near Arendtsville. He was a veteran of the Civil War, having served as sergeant in Co. I, 165th Pa. Regt. He was married to Lydia Hartzell of Biglerville. Four children were born to them, three of whom, Ollie, Lottie and Ervin W. are dead, but one surviving, Harry A. Orner of Warriors' Mark, Pa. He was one of seven sons, all natives of Adams county, the other six being George Orner, Felix Orner, Jerry Orner, Israel Orner, Jonas Orner and Amos Orner. The deceased had many friends and acquaintances in this county who held him in highest respect. The funeral was held on last Friday, Aug. 16, with interment at Warriors' Mark.

Anniversary Official Resigns.

Captain J. Richard Boyle, Secretary of the Fiftieth Anniversary Commission of the Battle of Gettysburg, tendered his resignation from the Commission last week. Captain Boyle has been the most active member of the Commission and occupied one of the most important positions in the Commission. His reasons for resigning have not been made public but it ought not to be difficult to make a guess as to them. Without any desire whatever to be unkind, but in justice to Gettysburg, and the celebration about ten months off, whose interests should be paramount to that of any individual, it becomes a duty for a public journal to speak.

General Louis Wagner, as Chairman of the Commission, has been autocratic and often unpleasant in insisting upon having his way. The Commission, composed of men advanced in years naturally have no desire to antagonize him and let him have his way. This has led straight to a do-nothing policy with a necessary day of reckoning ahead. The present condition of affairs must be some unpreparedness which can not help but reflect upon the Commission and it is not surprising that this should result in a resignation. The surprise is that all the Commissioners do not resign and allow their Chairman to face the reckoning for which in a great measure he is responsible.

Governor Tener should realize and appreciate his responsibility in the present emergency. A man should be named by Governor Tener who has had large experience in handling celebrations and he should be given the position with a suggestion to the commission to let him have his way and follow it and there may yet be time and the man to save the work the commission must yet do.

Next Year's Chautauqua.

The Directory of the Gettysburg Chautauqua Assembly look forward to a chautauqua in 1913 hopefully and confidently. Miss Grace Hershey of Philadelphia completed a canvass of a portion of the town by the early part of last week. Miss Hershey makes a business of selling tickets for chautauquas and the end of her work saw a total of nearly 900 tickets sold for next year's chautauqua. The canvass of Miss Hershey was not general. She was given lists of subscribers of 1910 and 1911 who had not yet subscribed and these were canvassed with uniform success. There is a most decided opinion prevailing in this community, and that is, that the chautauqua should not only be continued but be made a permanent annual summer attraction. Every one believes that it is an institution that is bound to grow and prove not only an instructive and inspiring feature of the community, but one that will pay for as it becomes a means to make the summer school and Lutheran assembly permanent features, it will help to add to the business of the place.

A visit to the battlefield to-day will disclose many acres torn up with the plow. The farmers can not wait until those in authority get ready to act. The Compiler for weeks has insisted upon immediate action. It is yet time to arrange that all plowed land be seeded in a way to make a sod for next year, but our farmers are entitled to full compensation for all losses occasioned by a change of their plans in farming.

Congressional action should be rushed as soon as the bill providing for the celebration has been finally passed.

The Pennsylvania Commission should be busy along another line. The veterans of Pennsylvania should be canvassed by G. A. R. Posts to ascertain number who will come to Gettysburg if their fare is paid. If New York is going to bring all her veterans who want to come, Pennsylvania can not do less. The number should be known. There are over 50,000 of them. The Legislature next winter can make provision for this feature which was not included in the bill creating commission.

Auto Tragedy.

There was an awful auto tragedy near Buena Vista Springs Hotel on Monday night of last week. According to the story of Charles Creager, one of the boys in the wreck, three boys went on a joy ride. The party was made up of Edward Creager and Charles Creager and George Lentz, who was in charge of a garage at the hotel. It was decided to take a ride about midnight. A machine said to be worth $4500 was taken from garage. The machine belonged to F. S. Parkinson of Richmond, Va. The lights were not lighted on machine so as not to attract attention of any of the guests at the hotel. Running at about 40 miles an hour the auto hit a stone and swinging about went into an oak tree and turned turtle.

Edward Creager fell under the car and had his neck broken. Charles Creager escaped with some bruises.

A queer part of the story of the accident told at the coroner's inquest under oath is the variance between the story of Charles Creager who swore that Lentz was in the car driving it, and Lentz who swore he was not in the car and the night watchman came to his room twenty minutes after the accident and aroused him. The coroner's jury gave it as their opinion that Geo. Lentz was driving the car when accident took place.

How Paint.

The first cost of a good job of paint—Devco—is $50 (average size, of course). The first cost of a second or third or fourth rate job, $55 to $100.

The wear is likewise. The better you paint, of course, the longer it wears. And the more you pay for your job, the shorter it wears.

Devco is one of a dozen good paints. There are hundreds of bad ones. As likely as not, Devco is the only good one in this town.

Gettysburg Fans have been enjoying the series of games during the summer arranged by the Sunday School Baseball League. A few postponed games remain to be played. The score of the teams to date is as follows:

the 30 or more guarantors of the deficit, and it was decided that this Board or Directors should be increased to 17 members. This could not be done according to the constitution of the assembly without a meeting after ten days' notice. Such a meeting was called for Monday morning of this week and an amendment was adopted providing for a board of 17 members.

Sixteen of the seventeen members were elected or ratified at the meeting on Monday and also the officers, as follows: Prof. C. F. Sanders, President; Dr. T. C. Billheimer, Vice President; C. S. Reaser, Secretary; L. L. Taylor, Treasurer; Wm. H. Tipton, M. K. Eckert, John A. Cox, Geo. L. Kieffer, T. A. Turner, of the old directory and new directors are Dr. W. A. Granville, R. C. Miller, John Raymond, E. P. Miller, Chas. B. Dougherty, J. O. G. Weaver and Wm. Arch. McClean.

H. T. Weaver resigned by reason of the condition of his health and resignation was accepted conditionally that as soon as he was able to take part in the work, he would be expected to become a member of the board. It is possible another canvass of the

WILSON'S ACCEPTANCE.

The acceptance of Woodrow Wilson of the Democratic nomination of the Presidency will be found entire on other pages. It is a gem from start to finish. Written in clearest and purest English it is easy to read and every American should read it. It is the soundest and wisest utterance in politics for a long time. It is a highly practical discussion of conditions. The keynote of the address is to be found in the following expression.

"The Nation has been unnecessarily unreasonably at war within itself when there were common principles of right and of fair dealing which might and should have bound them all together, not as rivals, but as partners. As the servants of all, we are bound to undertake the great duty of accommodation and adjustment."

The plan of adjustment is declared to be "not destruction of any sound and honest thing but merely the rule of right and of common advantage." "We need no revolution, we need no excited change, we need only a new point of view and a new method and spirit of counsel." The revision of the tariff Mr. Wilson declares must be immediate and it should be downward, unhesitatingly and steadily downward.

No intelligent reader can fail to understand what Mr. Wilson will do if he is elected President. He will be the great constructive Statesman of an epoch. His message is full of inspiration and hope and of the new light of reconciliation between interests now at war that means when effected industrial peace and prosperity.

these gentlemen get control of these things? Who handed our economic laws over to them for legislative and contractual alteration? We have in these disclosures still another view of the tariff, still another proof that not the people of the United States, but only a very small number of them, have been partners in that legislation.

The trusts do not belong to the period of infant industries. They are not the products of the time, that old laborious time, when the great continent we live on was undeveloped, the young nation struggling to find itself and get upon its feet amidst older and more experienced competitors. They belong to a very recent and very sophisticated age, when men knew what they wanted and knew how to get it by the favor of the government. It is another chapter in the natural history of power and of "governing classes." The next chapter will set us free again.

I am not one of those who think that competition can be established by law against the drift of a world wide economic tendency; neither am I one of those who believe that business done upon a great scale by a single organization—call it corporation or what you will—is necessarily dangerous to the liberties, even the economic liberties, of a great people like our own, full of intelligence and of indomitable energy. I am not afraid of anything that is normal. I dare say we shall never return to the old order of individual competition and that the organization of business upon a great scale of co-operation is, up to a certain point, itself normal and inevitable.

Sherman Law Amendments.
Power in the hands of great business men does not make me apprehensive, unless it springs out of advantages which they have not created for themselves. Big business is not dangerous because it is big, but because its business is an unwholesome inflation created by privileges and exemptions which it ought not to enjoy.

The general terms of the present federal anti-trust law, forbidding "combinations in restraint of trade," have apparently proved ineffectual. Trusts have grown up under its ban very luxuriantly and have pursued the methods by which so many of them have established virtual monopolies without serious let or hindrance. It has roared against them like any sucking dove. I am not assessing the responsibility; I am merely stating the fact. But the means and methods by which trusts have established monopolies have now become known. It will be necessary to supplement the present law with such laws, both civil and criminal, as will effectually punish and prevent those methods, adding such other laws as may be necessary to provide suitable and adequate judicial processes, whether civil or criminal, to disclose them and follow them to final verdict and judgment.

But the problem and the difficulty are much greater than that. There are not merely great trusts and combinations which are to be controlled and deprived of their power to create monopolies and destroy rivals. There is something bigger still than they are and more subtle, more evasive, more difficult to deal with. There are vast confederacies (as I may perhaps call them for the sake of convenience) of banks, railways, express companies, insurance companies, manufacturing corporations, mining corporations, power and development companies and all the rest of the circle, bound together by the fact that the ownership of their stock and the members of their boards of directors are controlled and determined by comparatively small and closely interrelated groups of persons who, by their informal confederacy, may control, if they please and when they will, both credit and enterprise. They are part of our problem. Their very existence gives rise to the suspicion of a "money trust," a concentration of the control of credit which may at any time become infinitely dangerous to free enterprise. If such a concentration and control do not actually exist it is evident that they can easily be set up and used at will. Laws must be devised which will prevent this, if laws can be worked out by fair and free counsel that will accomplish that result without destroying or seriously embarrassing any sound or legitimate business undertaking or necessary and wholesome arrangement.

The Labor Question.
Let me say again that what we are seeking is not destruction of any kind nor the disruption of any sound or honest thing, but merely the rule of right and of the common advantage. I am happy to say that a new spirit has begun to show itself in the last year or two among influential men of business and, what is perhaps even more significant, among the lawyers who are their expert advisers and that this spirit has displayed itself very notably in the last few months in an effort to return to some degree at any rate to the practices of genuine competition.

If I am right about this, it is going to be easier to act in accordance with the rule of right and justice in dealing with the labor question. The so-called labor question is a question only because we have not yet found the rule of right in adjusting the interests of labor and capital. The welfare of the happiness, the energy and spirit of the men and women who do the daily work in our mines and factories, on our railroads, in our offices and markets of trade, on our farms and on the sea, are of the essence of our national life. There can be nothing wholesome unless their life is wholesome; there can be no contentment unless they are contented. Their physical welfare affects the soundness of the whole nation. We shall never get very far in the settlement of these difficult matters so long as we regard everything done for the workman, by law or by private agreement, as a concession yielded to keep him from agitation and a disturbance of our peace. If we again the sense of universal partnership must come into play if we are to act like statesmen, as those who serve not a class, but a nation.

The working people of America—if they must be distinguished from the minority that constitutes the rest of it—are, of course, the backbone of the nation. No law that safeguards their life, that improves the physical and moral conditions under which they live, that makes their hours of labor rational and tolerable, that gives them freedom to act in their own interest and that protects them where they cannot protect themselves can properly be regarded as class legislation or as anything but as a measure taken in the interest of the whole people, whose partnership in right action we are trying to establish and make real and practical. It is in this spirit that we shall act if we are genuine spokesmen of the whole country.

Currency Laws.
As our program is disclosed—for no man can forecast it ready made and before counsel is taken of every one concerned—this must be its measure and standard, the interest of all concerned. For example, in dealing with the complicated and difficult question of the reform of our banking and currency laws it is plain that we ought to consult very many persons besides the bankers, not because we distrust the bankers, but because they do not necessarily comprehend the business of the country, notwithstanding they are indispensable servants of it and may do a vast deal to make it hard or easy. No mere bankers' plan will meet the requirements, no matter how honestly conceived. It should be a merchants and farmers' plan as well, elastic in the hands of those who use it as an indispensable part of their daily business.

In dealing with the Philippines we should not allow ourselves to stand upon any mere point of pride as if, in order to keep our countenance in the families of nations, it were necessary for us to make the same blunders of selfishness that other nations have made. We are not the owners of the Philippine Islands. We hold them in trust for the people who live in them. They are theirs for the uses of their life. We are not even their partners. It is our duty as trustees to make whatever arrangement of government will be most serviceable to their freedom and development. Here again we are to set up the rule of justice and of right.

Presidential Primaries.
The rule of the people is no idle phrase. Those who believe in it—who do not that has caught the real spirit of America—believe that there can be no rule of right without it; that right in politics is made up of the interests of everybody, and everybody should take part in the action that is to determine it. We have been keen for presidential primaries and the direct election of United States senators because we wanted the action of the government to be determined by persons whom the people had actually designated as men whom they were ready to trust and follow. We have been anxious that all campaign contributions and expenditures should be disclosed to the public in fullest detail because we regarded the influences which govern campaigns to be as much a part of the people's business as anything else connected with their government. We are working toward a very definite object, the universal partnership in public affairs upon which the purity of politics and its aim and spirit depend.

I do not know any greater question than that of conservation. We have been a spendthrift nation and must now husband what we have left. We must do more than that. We must develop as well as preserve our water powers and must add great waterways to the transportation facilities of the nation to supplement the railways within our borders as well as upon the isthmus. We must revive our merchant marine, too, and fill the seas again with our own fleets. We must add to our present postoffice service a parcels post as complete as that of any other nation. We must look to the health of our people upon every hand as well as bear them with justice and opportunity. This is the constructive work of government. This is the policy that has a vision and a hope and that looks to serve mankind.

There are many sides to these great matters. Conservation is easy to generalize about, but hard to particularize about wisely. Reservation is not the whole of conservation. The development of great states must not be stayed indefinitely to await a policy by which our forests and water power can prudently be made use of. It is development must go hand in hand. The policy we adopt must be progressive—not negative merely, as it did not know what to do.

Improving Our Rivers.
With regard to the development of greater and more numerous waterways and the building up of a merchant marine, we must follow great constructive lines and not fall back upon the cheap device of bounties and subsidies. In the case of the Mississippi river, the great central artery of our trade, it is plain that the federal government must build and maintain the levees and keep the great waters in harness for the general use.

The question of a merchant marine turns back to the tariff again, to which all roads seem to lead, and to our registry laws, which, if coupled with the tariff, might almost be supposed to have been intended to take the American flag off the seas. Bounties are not necessary if you will but undo some of the things that have been done. Without a great merchant marine we cannot take our rightful place in the commerce of the world. Merchants who must depend upon the carriers of rival mercantile nations to carry their goods to market are at a disadvantage in international trade too manifest to need to be pointed out, and our merchants will not long suffer themselves—ought not to suffer themselves—to be placed at such a disadvantage. Our industries have expanded to such a point that they will burst their jackets if they cannot find a free outlet to the markets of the world, and they cannot find such an outlet unless they be given ships of their own to carry their goods—ships that will go the routes they want them to go—and prefer the interests of America in their sailing orders and their equipment. Our domestic markets no longer suffice. We need foreign markets. That is another force that is going to break the tariff down. The tariff was once a bulwark; now it is a dam. For trade is reciprocal; we cannot sell unless we also buy.

The very fact that we have at last taken the Panama canal seriously in hand and are vigorously pushing it toward completion is eloquent of our reawakened interest in international trade. We are not building the canal and pouring out million upon million of money upon its construction merely to establish a water connection between the two coasts of the continent, important and desirable as that may be, particularly from the point of view of naval defense. It is meant to be a great international highway. It would be a little ridiculous if we should build it and then have no ships to send through it. There have been years when not a single ton of freight passed through the great Suez canal in an American bottom, so empty are the seas of our ships and seamen.

Industrial Education.
There is another duty which the Democratic party has shown itself great enough and close enough to the people to perceive, the duty of government to share in promoting agricultural, industrial, vocational education in every way possible within its constitutional powers. No other platform has given this intimate vision of a party's duty. Education is part of the great task of conservation, part of the task of renewal and of perfected power.

We have set ourselves a great program, and it will be a great party that carries it out. It must be a party without extraneous alliances with any special interest whatever. It must have the spirit and the point of view of the new age. Men are turning away from the Republican party as organized under its old leaders because they found that it was not free, that it was entangled, and they are turning to us because they deem us free to serve them.

We should go into this campaign confident of only one thing—confident of what we want to do if intrusted with the government. It is not a partisan fight we are entering upon. We are happily excused from personal attacks upon opponents and from all general indictments against the men opposed to us. The facts are patent to everybody; we do not have to prove them; the more frank among our opponents admit them. Our thinking must be constructive from start to finish. We must show that we understand the problems that confront us and that we are soberly minded to deal with them, applying to them not nostrums and notions, but hard sense and good courage.

A Government For Public Good.
A presidential campaign may easily degenerate into a mere personal contest and so lose its real dignity and significance. There is no indispensable man. The government will not collapse and go to pieces if any one of the gentlemen who are seeking to be intrusted with its guidance should be left at home. But men are instruments. We are as important as the cause we represent, and in order to be important must really represent a cause. What is our cause? The people's cause? That is easy to say, but what does it mean? The common as against any particular interest whatever? Yes, but that, too, needs translation into acts and policies. We represent the desire to set up an untangled government, a government that cannot be used for private purposes, either in the field of business or in the field of politics; a government that will not tolerate the use of the organization of a great party to serve the personal aims and ambitions of any individual and that will not permit legislation to be employed to further any private interest. It is a great conception, but I am free to serve it, as you also are. I could not have accepted a nomination which left me bound to any man or any group of men. No man can be just who is not free, and no man who has to show favors ought to undertake the solemn responsibility of government in any rank or post whatever, least of all in the supreme post of president of the United States.

To be free is not necessarily to be wise. But wisdom comes with counsel, with the frank and free conference of untrammelled men united in the common interest. Should I be intrusted with the great office of president I would seek counsel wherever it could be had upon free terms. I know the temper of the great convention which nominated me; I know the temper of the country that lay back of that convention and spoke through it. I heard with deep thankfulness the message you bring me from it. I feel that I am surrounded by men whose principles and ambitions are those of true servants of the people. I thank God and will take courage.

Car Ahead

By Harmony Weller

(Copyright, 1912, by Associated Literary Press)

George Verner entered a crowded surface car and found the last unoccupied seat. It chanced to be directly behind a very young woman and an infant.

Verner attempted to become interested in his paper, but the profile of the girl ahead of him stole his glances with every turn of her head. She was very young, very new to motherhood apparently; the man behind knew this because of the frantic, strained effort she made to keep the child in one position that it might not awake. A more experienced mother would have known that the baby would rest more comfortably in the easy relaxation of her arms. Verner remembered the fearful, breathless clutch with which he had first held his sister's baby, but gradually that feeling of holding a breakable toy had left him.

There was that same fear in the eyes of the young girl ahead of him, and Verner knew that she was living in momentary dread of the child falling to pieces in her arms.

He was beginning to sense the strain of her tense attitude when the car came to a stop.

"Car ahead!" yelled the conductor.

The passengers, in various stages of peevishness, gathered themselves and their belongings and prepared to follow the conductor's bidding.

Not so with the woman and the baby. She cast one startled glance at the outgoing passengers, and then her eyes met Verner's. There was positive tragedy in their depths. Then it was that Verner saw the big suit case on the floor beside her.

"How did she manage to get on the car if she couldn't get off with a suit case and a baby?" Verner asked himself while he raised his cap and addressed her.

"If you will permit me—I will carry."

"Oh—if you would be so kind," she gasped in a frightened little voice, and before Verner realized it she had

If You Will Permit Me, I Will Carry—put the baby in his arms and was about to pick up the suit case. "I am more used to this," she said with a half blush.

"I can easily take both," Verner told her as he swung the tiny infant against one big shoulder and took the suit case from her.

"Her eyes are decidedly coquettish for a young mother," was his inward comment as he helped her into the car ahead. He found it, within his consciousness to condemn married flirts, even though they had shaded gray eyes and one elusive dimple.

When he had put her comfortably into another seat in the car ahead she made room for him beside her and sent up a smile into Verner's eyes.

Although he felt himself to be treading on dangerous ground, he accepted the offered seat. His destination was a few blocks beyond and he felt that his heart could not be hopelessly damaged in so short a time. He sighed as he wondered who the man might be who called this little beauty his own.

"You seem perfectly at home with babies," the girl remarked by way of breaking a more or less awkward silence.

"I have three of my own," Verner told her in a half jesting manner, and wondered afterward why he wanted to convey that impression.

"Oh," was all the girl said, but her tone was noticeably colder, her attitude more aloof.

The girl's frigidity spurred on the man's imagination. He talked glibly of a beautiful wife and children whom he had never seen, of a home he had never known.

An inscrutable smile, not unlike that of the Mona Lisa, hovered over the young woman's eyes and lips. Verner wondered whether or not she was believing him.

A sense of irritation stole over him at the mockery in her eyes, and when his destination drew near he was half glad, half sorry.

"I regret I cannot go on with you and help you when you get off the car," he said by way of leave taking. "I have a business engagement."

"Thank you very much," she replied sweetly, "but baby's father will meet us at the end of the line."

Verner bowed formally and received a cool little nod in response. Nor did he give way to his desire to turn and watch the car as it whizzed off toward the end of the suburban line.

The young woman looked regretfully after him; then she sighed as she gazed down at the sleeping baby and drew him with greater tenderness into her arms.

"He is too good looking even for dreams," she murmured, and whether she referred to the small man in her arms or the big man on the street no one, perhaps not even the girl herself, knew.

Another meeting did not occur until some three months later. It was at a dance given by the suburban yacht club.

Verner entered the ball room with a stately beauty on his arm. Before they had made one turn of the room he knew that the little mother was among the guests and that she was popular with a number of cavaliers.

The stately beauty felt Verner's arms stiffen around her waist and wondered at his sudden lack of interest in her breezy conversation.

She might be a widow, was the thought uppermost in Verner's mind, but the brilliance of her costume and the existence of the tiny infant practically denied this.

Together with his condemnation of married flirts Verner felt irritated and jealous because of the men who dangled over the girl's dance floor.

He avoided catching her eye as long as he could, but when she danced so close to him that he saw the mockery in her expression and her nod to him he could only return her greeting.

After that Verner found that he was being introduced to her.

"The ninth and seventeenth dances are leap year waltzes, Mr. Verner," she said, looking laughingly into his eyes. "May I please have both of them?"

"You may if I may have two others," he put in quickly.

She blushed swiftly and handed Verner her card.

"Have you a dance left, Miss Gregory?" another moth about the candle questioned the girl.

Verner's startled, interrogative eyes searched the girl's face, and she laughed.

"You are not married—then?" he questioned without regard for the amused listeners.

"Not any more than you are, Mr. Verner." She glanced at him from beneath her lashes. "You know—I didn't believe, even for a moment, that you had three kiddies."

Verner had the grace to blush. "Just the same," he told her laughingly, "you deliberately tried to palm that baby off as yours."

"I did not," she retorted quickly. "You took it entirely for granted. I was merely carrying my brother's baby over to my home and somebody helped me both on and off the car. Of course—" she paused and glanced shyly at Verner—"none of us even dreamed of my having to change cars."

"And yet," he looked deep into her eyes. "It was fortunate—in this case, wasn't it?" He waited with laughter in his eyes but a compelling note in his voice.

Alice Gregory looked up and the dimple came into play.

"Perhaps it was," she said.
